Germans Facing Sure Defeat in West Normandy

Rommel Attempts Counter-Attacks

3—Italian front — 605 miles (measured from Senigallia).

By JAMES M. LONG

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Saturday, July 29 (AP)—Two covering United States tank columns smashed into the northern edge of Coutances yesterday and a third launched southwestward to within eighteen miles of Avranches at the base of Breton peninsula in a drive threatening to cave in all the enemy's Western Normandy defenses and open a route to inland France.

As suicide squads fought back from doomed Coutances—once the Western Normandy transport hub of the enemy — squadron upon squadron of dive-bombers hammered columns of the fleeing enemy on the road south, littering it with the burning hulks of wrecked equipment.

Rommel Attack Fails

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel threw in a heavy attack as one armored force in a lightning five-mile lunge toward this escape route up at St. Denis-Le-Gast, eight miles southeast of Coutances and about seven miles east of the road. The attack was quickly beaten off.

Nazi Positions Buckling

Enemy positions were buckling along an eighteen-mile front from Tassy-Vire to Coutances.

On the coastal route, the communiqué said, a tank column in a nine-mile drive down the Periers met the tanks which had spurred five miles down the road from Marigny, site of the breakthrough on the first day of the offensive Tuesday.

Largest Battle in West

Fluid fighting spread over 200 square miles, probably the largest battle in Western Europe in this war, front line dispatches said, and the bag of prisoners neared 5,000.

Casualties Heavy

The bomb which hit the restaurant landed in front of apartment buildings and stores, and a number of shoppers were cut by flying glass. An eye-witness said that the robot could not have dropped in a worse place at a worse time, and that the casualties must have been heavy.

Germans Digging In

The Germans were seen "digging in for all they are worth" south of Caen in preparation for Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's next blow.

Judge and Prosecutor Disagree On Treatment of Draft Dodgers

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP)—Conflicting opinions concerning the punishment of draft violators were advanced today by Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut who would "give them the very things they were attempting to avoid" and Federal Prosecutor Charles Mindel who advocated prison terms.

Poreing the selective service violators to enter the armed services was described by Judge Chesnut as more effective punishment than sentencing them to prison terms, which Mindel contended would have a more deterrent effect.

The issue arose during a case wherein five men were convicted of failing to obey draft regulations. Judge Chesnut directed that they

Bureaucrat's Dream: Congressional Plan for Dividing Airport Money Floors Congressmen

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The Washington staff of the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers peered out nervously from a jumble of logarithms today and denounced a proposed congressional equation for dividing up federal airport construction money among the states.

Charles S. Rhyne, capital representative of the institute, retfully plucked a decimal point off his coat sleeve and said:

"Man and boy, I have never seen anything quite like this proposed in federal legislation. This is a bureaucrat's dream."

The formula, offered in a bill recently introduced by Rep. Jennings Randolph (D-W.Va.), goes like this:

Lower case M equals—now start a big bracket—The sum of the following quantities: A squared over D, divided by the summation of B squared over D, and C squared over D, divided by the summation of C squared over D (now you can close the big bracket), and the whole thing multiplied by capital M divided by three.

The little M stands for the amount of money each state would get; A is the state population; B its

German Rocket Centers Bombed

Southern England Is Badly Damaged

By JUDSON O'QUINN

LONDON, July 28 (AP)—RAF heavy bombers blasted a massive German rocket installation in France again tonight while civilian workers in Southern England dug in debris for flying bomb victims as more robots winged overhead.

Halifaxes—probably carrying their six-ton earthquake bombs—with a fighter escort attacked a supply depot in the Pas-de-Calais area near Watten, a structure believed connected with the Nazi threat to launch ten-ton rockets against England.

Bomb Hits Restaurant

Fighters and ground guns went after the latest salvo of vengeance bombs. One of the robots fell into a river in Southern England without killing any one but workers still were digging for bodies at the spot where a robot bomb blew up a crowded restaurant at the busy noon hour, killing and trapping a number of persons and causing widespread damage.

Only One Change

Actually there has been only one change in the German high command; Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian as chief of the general staff, for Col. Gen. Kurt Zeitzler, with the injured Gen. Alfred Jodl apparently his deputy chief of staff.

Kesselring "Injured"

The name of Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring, the Nazi commander in Italy, is one missing from the list. A British general commenting on a report that Kesselring was injured that perhaps he was injured in the hand that writes telegrams congratulating Hitler.

Hitler Facing Possibility of Balkan Collapse

Turkey May Soon Break with Nazis

By FLORA LEWIS

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today faced the growing possibility of collapse on his Balkan front.

Heavily censored reports from Ankara indicate that Turkey may be about to break relations with the Nazis, a move which not only would cut off all Hitler's economic and spy activities in the near east, but which might quickly lead to war.

Bulgaria Restless

At the same time, Ankara said that Bulgaria is negotiating with the Allies to get out of the war.

Acting Secretary of State Stettinius said he had not information on such talks, but expert observers here were not surprised at the dispatch.

Bulgaria has been sitting shakily on the Axis side of the fence with one foot tossed over the top, by virtue of maintaining peaceful relations with Russia.

Now that the Red army has pushed into Rumania, a strong Turkish move toward the United Nations camp would leave Bulgaria virtually encircled.

As Gallagher Sees It: Associated Press Writer Describes American Advance against Germans

By WES GALLAGHER

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, July 28 (AP)—An armored American column smashed its way five miles south from Notre Dame DeCenilly to St. Denis Le-Gast tonight before encountering renewed heavy opposition by the Germans as Marshal Erwin Rommel struggled to keep the last escape routes open along the coast.

Grecks Face Entrapment

Greece could be turned into a gigantic trap for the Nazis, hemmed there between the Allies in Italy and tottering Bulgaria.

4,000 Prisoners Taken

Li Gen, Omar Bradley's "precision offensive" took shape as long as the fighting was going on. The badly mauled Eighty-fourth German corps managed to get a considerable number of their battered troops out of the trap north of Coutances, field commanders along the Coutances-Marigny road said today.

Selective Service Officials Ask Advice on Employment of Veterans

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 28 (AP)—A Maryland Selective Service request for aid in dealing with problems concerning reemployment of returned veterans was forwarded to Attorney General William C. Walsh today by Governor O'Connor.

Should Replacements Hired Under the Merit System be Discharged When Their Predecessors Return and if so, should they be discharged according to seniority in their departments or in the state service?

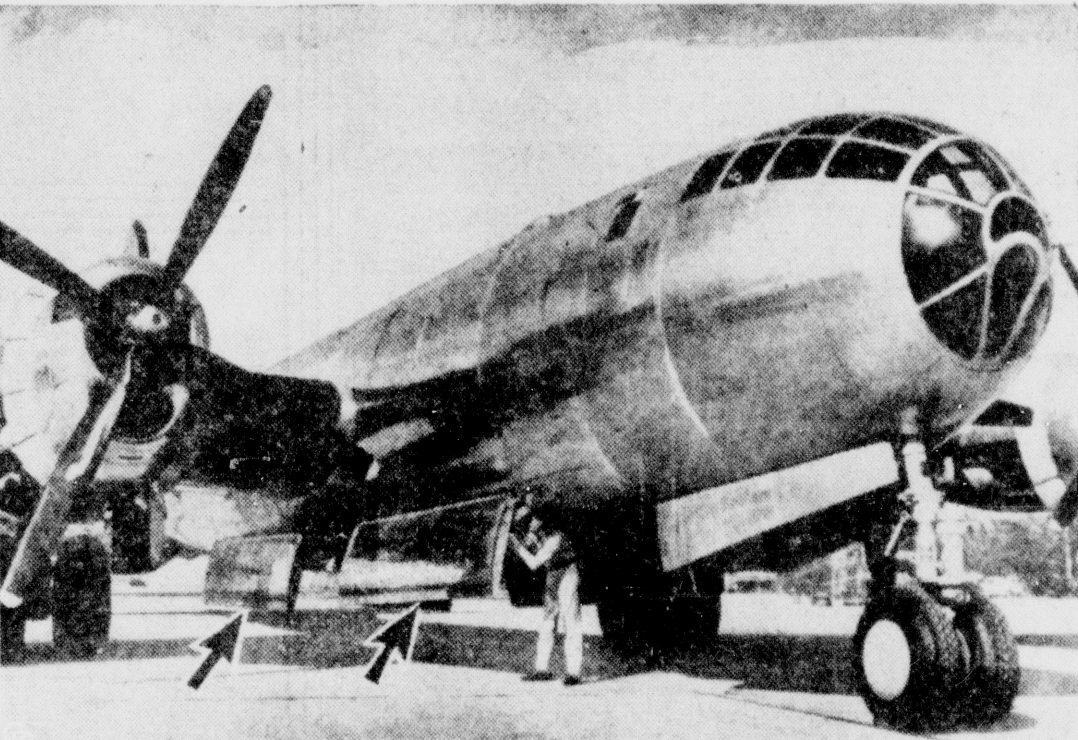

Is the veteran entitled to pay from the date he filed a reinstatement application if his reemployment is delayed?

Do reemployment rights apply if the veteran were discharged at his own request?

If his position had been filled but another of comparable rating were available, is the veteran entitled to the first job?

If his position had been abolished in his absence, is he entitled to a job of similar status even if that right require discharging a non-veteran?

REVEAL DOUBLE BOMB BAY SECRET OF B-29

FOR THE FIRST TIME it has been disclosed that the new B-29 Superfortresses have two bomb bays, as indicated by arrows above. Bombs, it is explained, can be dropped alternately from each, although the bomb capacity remains a secret. As one bay is forward of the wing and the other aft, maintaining the center of gravity, the flight of the giant American Superfortress remains unaffected.

American Flag Flies Over Guam

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, July 28 (AP)—The stars and stripes fly again over Guam, first bit of American territory lost to Japan.

Strikes Reported From Large Plants

A new rash of labor disputes yesterday (Friday) boosted the number of idle nearly to 14,000 mark.

A strike branched out into five plants of the Chevrolet gear and axle division, manufacturers of warplane engine parts in Detroit, and put approximately 1,800 men off their jobs. The trouble developed after five employees were suspended for failure to maintain new production rates.

Brest Litovsk Falls; 30,000 Nazis Trapped

Huge German Baltic Army Faces Capture

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Saturday, July 29 (AP)—Russian troops swept across grainfields to within twenty miles of the Polish capital of Warsaw yesterday and also captured Brest Litovsk and trapped three German divisions of perhaps 30,000 men near that Bug river stronghold, Moscow announced early today.

In the north, other Soviet units of Gen. Ivan G. Bagration's First Baltic army plunged to within fifty miles of Riga, closing steadily on an even richer prize—the German Baltic army of possibly 300,000 men imperiled in Estonia and Latvia now that the main Axis rail route to German East Prussia has been snapped.

Southern Strongholds Taken

Far to the south the German strongholds of Jaroslavl and Przemysl fell to Russian Ukraine forces striking westward toward Krakow on the main trunk railway to Germany. Red army troops also began ascending the Carpathian mountain roads toward nearby Czechoslovakia.

Fighting within Warsaw

Polish underground warriors already are fighting the Germans inside Warsaw, dispatches said, and the great city was almost within artillery range of Soviet guns.

3,000 Germans Killed

The three German divisions surrounded near fallen Brest Litovsk, 115 miles east of Warsaw, apparently had waited too long before trying to retreat to the Vistula. The mid-night Moscow bulletin said the Germans had suffered 7,000 dead during the day, 3,000 of these falling at the historic fortress city of Brest Litovsk.

encreased divisions are west of the city and the communiqué said that in an attempt to break out of the Soviet trap "the Germans marched like a solid wall towards our positions."

Soviet artillerymen and mortar gunners shattered the enemy with a hurricane of fire.

On the tabletop land outside Warsaw there still was no sign of a fixed German line of defense. Moscow dispatches said. Some believed the Germans might give up Warsaw and begin another long retreat westward across the open plains to Germany, 210 miles away.

South and southwest of Stanislawow the Russians swept to within only a few miles of the Czech border on a thirty-mile front, striking for the Carpathian mountain passes leading into Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Moscow dispatches said the Germans were retreating across the frontier.

Democrats Must Get Many to Polls Who Never Voted To Win, Poll Shows

Survey Reveals Majority In That Group Favors President Roosevelt

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 23 — National Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan's urgent plea at Chicago that Democrats bend every effort to turn out the largest possible vote this November as the best means of helping the Roosevelt cause is based upon a sound appraisal of the situation facing the Democratic Party.

Victory for President Roosevelt this November will actually depend in large part upon the ability of the party to get workers who have left their home states or areas to register and vote this fall.

The reason that the Democrats will want to get these people into the voting booths come November is very simple. Three out of every five prefer Roosevelt to Dewey today, according to Institute polls.

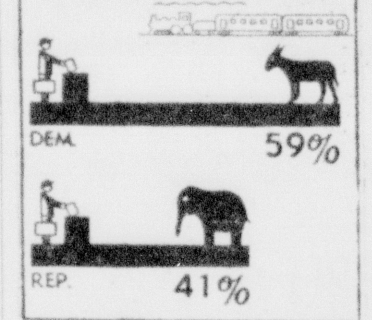

This is shown in the following table giving the Dewey-Roosevelt preference today of people who say they have not voted before in the election districts where they now live — a group which includes those who have never bothered to vote and those too young to vote heretofore, as well as those who have shifted their place of residence and must therefore take steps to qualify for voting in November.

Those Who Haven't Voted in Their Districts

Favor Roosevelt	59%
Favor Dewey	41%

In other words, among those who have not voted in the districts where they now live, for every 100 who stay away from the polls in November, the Democrats stand to lose fifty-nine votes to only forty-one for the Republicans.

POLITICAL PREFERENCE OF VOTERS WHO HAVE NEVER VOTED IN DISTRICTS WHERE THEY NOW LIVE

What is even more important, without the above group a Dewey victory would be assured today, as the following table indicates:

Those Who Have Voted Before in Districts Where They Live

Favor Roosevelt	48%
Favor Dewey	52%

The extent of the job facing the Democrats is emphasized by the fact that Institute figures brought up to date show well above 10,000,000 potential voters who have not voted in any election in the districts where they now reside.

Mr. Roosevelt Not A Military Genius

(Since the Democrats are emphasizing the indispensability of President Roosevelt during the war, the following editorial from the Ohio Republican is at times interesting. The Democrat record on this subject is not a military genius.)

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT may regret his decision to seek a fourth term, not as president but as "commander-in-chief," for it raises the question now good a military mind Mr. Roosevelt really has.

A study of the president's military record during his tenure in the White House indicates clearly that he is not an indispensable military genius. In fact, conclusions directly the opposite may be drawn from that record.

One of them is that Mr. Roosevelt hastened toward war without preparing the country adequately for war. The first requisite of the military leaders is realistic foresight and in this Mr. Roosevelt was singularly lacking.

For instance, he did not foresee the breakthrough in France because only after it had occurred did he ask for greatly increased military appropriations. A few weeks before Dunkerque he was urging Congress to go home.

Fortunately Congress disregarded the advice and was on the job, the military appropriation bills were therefore enacted without needless delay. At the beginning of the war in Europe, Gen. Marshall was quoted as saying that the army was hardly twenty-five per cent ready, but it took the collapse of France to let Mr. Roosevelt into preparing the army and navy to fight through he continued throughout the period of the blitzkrieg to threaten the Axis.

It is true, of course, that a great many people were as astonished as Mr. Roosevelt was at the German victory in 1940. The circumstances do not prove that Mr. Roosevelt was uniquely blind; they do prove, however, that his military judgment is anything but exceptional. Even with the advantages of access that he could get from professional military men, and of information coming through secret diplomatic channels, he still was either wholly wrong in his appraisal of the situation or grossly negligent. Certainly there is nothing in this record to suggest that he is a military genius or anything remotely resembling one.

The facts before and after Pearl Harbor tell the same story. Mr. Roosevelt knew of the Japanese custom of jumping the gun at the start of the war but still he permitted the officers in Honolulu to order nothing more than the No. 1 alert, to guard against sabotage, but not against other forms of attack. It should be emphasized also that Adm. Kimmel was hand-picked for command of our battle fleet in Hawaii by Mr. Roosevelt. The military genius in the White House was one of perhaps a dozen men in this country who knew exactly how critical were relations with Japan at that moment, but he took none of the steps that quite ordinary military prudence would have dictated.

He did not foresee the importance which radar would have in this war though he was one of a handful of men in the world who in a position to know all about radar's possibilities and about its successful use in England at the time of the blitz. If he had been gifted with military foresight he would have made sure that the permanent detection installations which had been ordered for Hawaii were installed on time. As it was, by approaching Japanese eyes were picked up by an enlisted man, practicing in his spare time on a temporary, mobile installation in which no confidence was placed.

Not only the attack on Pearl Harbor but the nature of the attack as well took Mr. Roosevelt completely by surprise. It never occurred to the military genius that the Japanese might bomb our ships from the air. There they lay, a shallow harbor, like sitting ducks, and on the near-by airport, stood our bombing and fighting planes assembled in neat rows, as if to provide targets for destruction. Mr. Roosevelt had unique opportunities to learn about the air arm in the war, but he didn't learn until war had been declared that the officers in command demonstrate any awareness of the power of the airplane. The Japanese attacked the war with more carriers than we had. Mr. Roosevelt put his full faith in battleships.

Mr. Roosevelt saw war approaching in the Pacific but didn't make adequate preparations to meet it even where he felt sure the Japanese would strike us first—in the Philippines. When it was already too late he ordered small reinforcements to Gen. MacArthur but the war began while they were at sea and they never reached Manila. The planes and guns that might have saved the Philippines had been sent to Europe. That is, it was clear from the course of the diplomatic negotiations that the occasion for war, if it came, would be our support of the British and Dutch against Japanese aggression upon their colonies, the great intellect failed to come to any understanding about a joint defense. Apparently he believed fully in the myth of Singapore's impregnability.

The most ordinary military mind would have known that the failure to unite the Allied forces in the Orient for the defense of the most defensible positions must result in the collapse of the individual garrisons one by one, but no preparations were made against defeat in detail. The result was that we lost the Philippines, the British lost Hong Kong, Singapore, and Malaya, and the Dutch lost Sumatra and Java and we all lost our Asiatic fleets without more than temporary embarrassment to the Japanese.

Surely there is nothing in this record to suggest that Mr. Roosevelt is distinguished for sound military judgment. On the contrary, rather, his followers boast that he saw the war coming for years, but if this is true it is equally true that he told the American people he would not lead them to war and though he spent a score of billions on boondoggling he did not insist upon building up the defenses of the country to match his belligerence.

If we have recovered from our initial blunders, the credit goes chiefly to the same American industry that throughout his administration Mr. Roosevelt has harassed, and to the gallantry of the American fighting man whose self-reliance Mr. Roosevelt has persistently, but unsuccessfully sought to destroy.

It is pure speculation—all of it. It is the most serious thing that has yet happened to Hitler. No longer is there a solid front in Germany. The political scene there seems to be every bit as black as the military picture.

The country seems to be bursting at the seams. Can Hitler win this fight? Temporarily, he may be able to hold his power, but it can only be for a fleeting moment. He may slaughter as many generals as he wants to, yet the German army remains what it has always been—the real master of the nation in the last showdown.

But is this the last showdown? No one here can tell that at this moment. The Gestapo under Himmler is very strong. It is really a powerful internal army, at least 600,000 strong and as well armed as any army that size. An army of 600,000 holding the nerve centers of a nation obviously can retain power for some time.

But in the last analysis real control rests in the German high command. For one thing, only the generals in the field can surrender armies. And, for a second, it is the generals who can turn the machine guns and the artillery on their own enemies within.

The question is whether the high command has reached that point. But regardless of whether they stay in line, Hitler should know by now that he is a doomed man. If not this month, next month. And if not next month, the month after.

It's High Time To Get Tough with Argentina

IT IS STATED that with regard to the action of the United States government toward the Farrell regime in Argentina that this nation has been exceedingly patient and reluctant. Perhaps it has been too much so to a point of an appeasement that might have had better results if an earlier and more positive course had been pursued. Certainly Argentina has had ample opportunity to make its practices conform with its pledges.

However, it is better late than never, and since the position of this country has been well documented in showing that Argentina has failed to fulfill all its promises to collaborate with the United Nations and has instead "persisted in an open, notorious and contrary course of action which has given constant aid and comfort to the enemies" of the United Nations, there is undoubtedly a general agreement with the United States in withholding recognition of the Farrell regime.

Argentina has been so impregnated with the Nazi influence not only during the Farrell regime but during other preceding ones that it can understand only the kind of language that is applicable to the Nazis and it is a remarkable demarcation of this nation, and perhaps somewhat unwise, that the understandable type of language was not long ago utilized.

The Japs have sent a consignment of rare tea to Hitler with which he supposed to "soothe his nerves." They forget that Adolf is strictly a beer hall warrior.

These days must seem indeed dull to the celebrities who have no political conventions left at which to be seen.

Berlin can be bombed now from east, west and the south. So far however, the Berliners have not stated any preference.

The only good Jap, it seems, is that one called Harry Karl.

How Long Will It Be for Hitler?

THE BLOOD PURGE continues in Germany. The word coming out is that scores upon scores of high-ranking German army officers have been put to death. There are reports of revolts here and there. They say Adolf Hitler holds the upper hand. Another report is that der fuhrer has barricaded himself in a new hideout.

It is pure speculation—all of it. It is the most serious thing that has yet happened to Hitler. No longer is there a solid front in Germany. The political scene there seems to be every bit as black as the military picture.

Why Should We Change?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

My friend and I are different in many ways.

He is more volatile, more impetuous than I. I think he has more courage, more confidence; at least he is more reckless. It is possible that he cares less about the appearance of things than I do. He speaks his mind to individuals more bluntly, minds their disapproval less.

Our backgrounds differ, too. He was a child in the city of New York; I grew in a little western town. We did not go to very different schools. We were not brought up in different ways. We were both well into manhood, and he is some years older.

Though we are similar in very many ways; we are more unlike than like. We argue.

We cannot avoid that. It could not be otherwise since he is and I am I. Our minds do not touch life identically. He is one chemical and I am another and we cannot possibly react in the same way. I could not live his life, nor he mine. I would be unhappy living as he does; and he would be miserable trying to do my work.

So there are times when we stand on opposite sides of the fence and discuss our beliefs at length and in detail. But never come together in agreement. Because we are forever fixed in disagreement on certain faiths and convictions.

But I like to remember that we have never quarreled over our beliefs. I think he mourns a little over me; I him the despot power to change my friend and make him identical with me. I would not lift my little finger to use that power. And I believe he feels the same about me.

We are not opponents. We are not bound to agree, we are bound only to each other, and perhaps our friendship is in our difference and not in our likeness. Why should we change for each other?

Slogan about Winning Pitcher Is Viewed As Countering Sound Baseball Practice

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 28 — When Quentin Reynolds, the war correspondent made his speech at the Democratic national convention and uttered a new slogan—namely, that the American people understand one of the fundamental rules of baseball, not to "take out the pitcher when he is pitching a winning game" — he stirred up quite an interest in slogans.

Apparently a good many people who read his slogan think that he has not derived sufficiently into the technique of modern baseball. For one voter writes to this correspondent and suggests that "when a man has pitched twelve innings he ought to be taken out fast because he is tired, and sure to crack soon, and probably will pay no attention to instructions from the manager (the American people) and will undoubtedly lose the ball game if permitted to pitch any longer."

The old slogan that "it is not wise to change horses in mid-stream" has been rebutted by the other side who insist that "it is wise to get a strong horse if you want to be sure to get to the other side."

There is no doubt that much emphasis will be placed on these slogans during the campaign, and the baseball vocabulary is likely to dominate, because people do not travel by horseback these days and are much more familiar with baseball.

Many Pitching Failures

There are many instances of pitchers who tried to pitch extra-inning games and failed. Some of them got a bit wild in the extra innings and lost their games. There are, of course, instances in which pitchers have gone through extra innings with undiminished strength.

Political stump speakers may, of course, point out that while the pitcher has not been changed in the past twelve years and wants to continue for another four years, it has been necessary to change the other end of the battery. Thus, Vice President Garner was taken out after eight years because he and the pitcher did not get along too well, and Vice President Wallace was eliminated at the end of the subsequent four years because some of the fans did not like the catcher. Apparently, Mr. Roosevelt would have been glad to go along with Mr. Wallace. But the managers—in this case the political bosses in the North and the Censorship for the present keeps the details from the public and not until the war is over will it be known whether an alternative strategy was suggested which Mr. Roosevelt was not able to persuade the British government to adopt or whether a compromise strategy was agreed to which did not represent the views of any of the participants at the outset.

So long as the discussion is kept in the slogan stage and the debate centers on whether the pitcher ought or ought not to be taken out when the game is going into extra innings, there may be no harm in it and there may even be some baseball experts who will suggest that while it is important to win the game it cannot be so important to use the same pitcher in the post-season series.

CIO Committee Is Seen Dominating Democratic Party

By MARK SULLIVAN

In this campaign the Democratic party consists mainly, indeed almost wholly, of three groups—the South, the Democratic machines in large northern cities, and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Study of the relations of these groups to each other, and to the party as a whole, suggests important conditions ahead.

At the Democratic convention in Chicago, CIO made a vigorous attempt to achieve dominance in the party, by renominating Vice President Wallace. The attempt failed, because of a temporary combination of the other two groups—the city bosses and the South, uniting, nominated Senator Truman. But failure of CIO's initial attempt at dominance does not mean that the attempt will be abandoned, nor does it forecast future failure. The greater probability is that CIO will ultimately dominate.

Meeting of World Bank Is Reported

By S. B. Pettengill

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

THE CHAIRMAN, LORD KEYNES: The fifth annual meeting of the World Bank will come to order. All of the forty-one delegates are present, including one from the United States.

This bank is unique in world history. It is run by its borrowers. That the United States is the principal stockholder and yet turns its money over to the borrowers is an evidence of good-neighborliness, of altruism, and of Christian brotherhood that will enshrine that noble country forever in the hearts of mankind. I am honored to be the chairman of such a bank.

We will now hear the treasurer's report.

Borrowing Duty Fulfilled

THE TREASURER: At the present time all countries have fulfilled their obligations by borrowing from the bank. None has failed in this high duty. (Cries of "Hear, Hear!")

KEYNES: The chair will ask how many borrowers, if any, are in default.

TREASURER: All except Finland are in default.

MORGENTHAU: My Lord Chairman, this is the most gratifying news since Hitler surrendered. It shows that the funds of the bank are being put to good use by our world neighbors, whereas if the loans were repaid, they would be hid under an American bushel. I congratulate the treasurer on this splendid report.

BOLIVIAN: As all countries are in default on their interest also, I move that the bank loan them the money to pay the interest. This will make their accounts current.

Bigger Default Goal

KEYNES: Without objection, it is so ordered.

BRAZILIAN: I thank my Bolivian friend. I now move that the loans to all borrowers be doubled. In this connection I remind the board that South American loans during the 1920's defaulted eighty per cent. I know we will beat that record, and that the new loans will default at least ninety per cent!

SPANIARD: Excellent! I second the motion of my Brazilian friend.

Florida Will Have 120 Days of Racing

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla., July 28 (AP) — The state racing commission assigned dates today for a full 120 days of horse racing next winter and gave Gulfstream park, twelve miles north of Miami, permission to reopen and share the Florida season with Hialeah and Tropical parks.

Gulfstream was built by Jack Horning, young Pittsburgh contractor at an estimated cost of $1,500,000 and opened in 1939 but closed in four days because of financial difficulties. The plant has been in litigation since then, and finally was purchased a short time ago by the Gulfstream Park Racing Association, headed by James Dunn, Miami florist and a former director of Tropical park.

Each track was assigned forty days of racing. Hialeah, as in past years, drew the preferred dates at the height of the season, January 13 to March 3. The other two were given split seasons.

Gulfstream will be the first to open and the last to close. It was assigned the dates December 1-23 and March 24 to April 19. Tropical was given December 25-January 18 and March 5-March 27.

Al Smith, first of Cleveland's pitchers, was the loser, being lifted in the fourth inning when the Yankees tallied five times.

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, sweeping the four-game series to make it eight victories in their last ten starts, used the long range technique against Washington's Senators for a 13 to 2 triumph today.

Johnny Dickshot's triple off Wilfred Lefebvre with the bases loaded started the Chicago scoring in the third and Ralph Hodgins' homer two pitches later made it a five-run inning. Hal Trosky hit his season's seventh homer off Reliever Alex Carrasquel in the fifth inning.

Southpaw Ed Lopat scattered eight Washington hits for his fifth victory against six losses. It was the seventh straight defeat and eleven losses in twelve games for the Senators. The box:

AT THE TRACKS Pensive Favored To Make Comeback In Arlington 'Cap

Calumet Ace, after Four Defeats, Heads Field of Nine

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP) — Pensive, beaten four times since winning the Kentucky derby and the Preakness, goes back to work again tomorrow with the prospects of making good this time.

The Calumet farms' three-year-old probably will go to the post in the $50,000 added Arlington handicap sharing favorite honors with the Washington-bred Georgia Drum and Equinox, owned by Howard Wells of Lexington, Ky. A field of nine accepted the issue for the mile and a quarter route.

Pensive will get out of the shadow of his recently stable mate, Twilight Tear, and will not pack his accustomed 126 pounds. He will have Lem "Buddy" Maas on his back instead of the Cuban-born Freddie Smith.

Trainer Ben Jones said today that Pensive has not been a sound horse and that it has been difficult to get him back into the form he displayed in winning the derby and the Preakness.

George Drum led the field home in the $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap on July 4, with Equinox a charging second. Equinox won the 1941 Arlington handicap as a four-year-old.

Others in the field will be John March's Valinda, Fox War Knight, entry of Miss Ethel Hill, of Hollywood, Calif., B. H. Wise's Bushwacker, Ended and Mae-James.

Pvt. Paul Brode, Frostburg, Badly Wounded in Saipan Island Battle

Wife, Who Resides near Finzel, Is Notified by War Department

WOUNDED ON SAIPAN

PVT. PAUL BRODE

By RUDOLPH NICKEL
FROSTBURG, July 28 — Mrs. Daisy Laura Caten Brode, of near Finzel, Garrett county, received a telegram from the War Department Thursday stating that her husband, Pvt. Paul Brode, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brode, Frostburg, was seriously wounded, June 26, in the battle for the Saipan Islands in the Pacific theater of operations.

Pvt. Brode, attached to Company G of the One Hundred, Sixty Ninth Infantry, was inducted into the army in April, 1943 and received his basic training at an army camp in Georgia and at Port Ord, Calif. He was sent overseas in December, 1943. The last letter his family received from him was dated May 28 when he said he was in the best of health.

Pvt. Brode resided in Frostburg when he was inducted. His wife, is a resident of Garrett county. He has a son, Paul, eight months old, who he has never seen.

Before entering the military service, Pvt. Brode was employed in the spinning department of the Celanese plant. He has two brothers in the service, Pfc. Francis Brode, Shepherd field, Texas and Pfc. Edgar Brode, Fort Belvoir, Va.

Paper Collection Today

Girl Scouts have been co-operating with the Frostburg Salvage committee in preparation for the paper collection, scheduled for Saturday morning and indications point to a record collection. The Girl Scouts alone have accumulated several tons of magazines, which will be packed according to regulations and ready for the trucks when the drive starts.

Walter Mackay, chairman of the salvage committee states that magazines contain the best quality paper and bring the best prices when salvaged, but newspapers, paper bags, catalogues, cardboard boxes and containers and everything made of paper would be made available for collection in the current drive. He urges the packing of scrap paper in a cardboard box or paper bag so that it may find its way directly into the war effort.

Alton Portney, chairman of the Upper Potomac Salvage committee, will be in Frostburg to assist in the collection. He states that he will recommend that Girl Scouts of other communities join with the Frostburg Girl Scouts in aiding this important and necessary work in connection with the war effort.

Flag Raising Sunday

The flag raising ceremony to be held at the Frostburg filtration plant Sunday, will be a feature of a public ceremony scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m. instead of 2:00 p. m. as previously announced.

The Arion band will be in attendance and render a concert. City Attorney William S. Jenkins will be master of ceremonies and addresses will be delivered by Mayor Skidmore and members of the city council.

General arrangements for the event have been in charge of Water Commissioner Jesse Jacobs, who states that the plant has been repainted for the occasion and the lawns and shrubbery are perfectly groomed. Water Superintendent Melvin Lemmer will escort visitors through the plant and explain the detail work in connection with filtering the water for domestic consumption.

OAKLAND, July 28 — Garrett countians, through the collection of milk weed pods this fall, are being given the opportunity of saving possibly 2,000 lives of men in the armed forces.

The collection of milkweed floss is now vital to the war effort to replace kapok, a silky, seed-pod fiber for filler in life jackets, the supply of which was cut off when Japan captured the East Indies.

The task of collecting these pods which have been found to contain a floss best suited to use in life vests because of its buoyancy and the fact that it is waterproof, has been placed in the hands of members of the county agricultural war board. Heading the project here will be John H. Carter, county agent, and William W. Nace, soil conservationist. Mr. Carter said the campaign would be conducted through the schools, 4-H clubs and individuals. It is estimated that two bushels of pods will fill a life jacket.

Although people are urged to do this work because American lives may be saved, the government will provide twenty cents per bushel for all pods picked. Pods are to be cut before early September when they begin to turn brown.

Carter said there were over 2,000 farms in the county and each farm should provide at least two bushels of pods.

Bags of pods must be hung in the open to dry but dew, rain or snow will not harm the pods when hung in mesh bags above the ground.

Starling Menace Threatens Corn Crop in County

Farmers Appeal to Hunters for Help; Birds also Destroy Fruit

Farmers in the Mexico Farms section have appealed to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, for help in ridding their premises of starling which are causing heavy damage to the corn crop and fruit throughout that part of the county.

The starling, a destructive bird, usually appears in late summer or early fall and is noted for damaging corn before it is cured and fruit before it becomes ripe on the tree.

Imported to this country from England about fifty years ago, the starling has become a real headache to American farmers because of the manner in which it destroys crops and damages orchards. It has a sharp-pointed bill about three quarters of an inch in length and delights in carrying out its destruction in corn fields.

Travel in Large Flocks

This bird, regarded as non-migratory, travels in flocks of thousands at times and is at present not only taking a heavy toll of the corn crop and fruit near Mexico Farms but has extended its operations to North Branch and Spring Gap.

Farmers residing in the sections affected by the marauding birds have invited hunters to bring their shotguns and help rid their land of the pests. Scarcity of ammunition is the only thing that has prevented wholesale slaughter of the birds but Minke has appealed to persons with ammunition and shotguns to go to the farms and try out their marksmanship. He figures that if some of the starlings are killed it will scare away the others, thus saving the 1944 crops and orchards in the eastern end of the county.

The regional game warden recalled the heavy concentration of starlings in Cumberland almost twenty years ago at which time they caused considerable damage to property around the court house and the Central State Methodist church. The birds usually build their nests about houses and old towers.

Crop Loss Threatened

Farmers said that the loss of a large portion of the 1944 corn crop is threatened if action isn't taken immediately to kill the birds or drive them out of the section where their heavy concentration covers a radius of five miles.

Committee Named To Confer on NYA Building at Coney

Group Would Arrange for Use of Structure as Home for Juveniles

More than twenty church and civic leaders met with the board of county commissioners yesterday and appointed a committee to confer with the National Youth Administration building at Coney Island in regard to taking over the NYA building in the town for use as a home for delinquent juveniles.

Mrs. Francis Lichtenstein was named chairman of the committee. She will be assisted by Miss Irene Oxen, executive secretary of the county welfare board; Mrs. Robert W. Work, representing civic clubs, and Mrs. William A. Eisenberger, for church groups. Commissioner Holmes was appointed to represent the county commissioners.

It was suggested that it might be possible to use the NYA building until after the war, when a permanent home might be erected near Cumberland, probably on the county property on Valley road. The building at Coney Island, a large stone structure, is owned by the town of Lonaconing and is not in use.

A permanent county home would cost approximately $100,000, with maintenance and operation costs $20,000 yearly, it is estimated by county officials.

Since the county emergency home on Valley road, operated for several years by Harry Balch, was closed last year, it is sometimes necessary to house the children in jail overnight, pending settlement of their cases in juvenile court.

Injunction Sought Against Ballous By Oldakers

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley T. Oldaker filed a bill of complaint in circuit court yesterday, asking for an injunction against Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Ballou, charging them with draining sewage water across the Oldaker property on the Creek road.

The Oldakers said that their property was sold to them by the defendants May 29. Their attorney is Edward J. Ryan. The defendants have been ordered to appear in circuit court August 7 for a hearing.

By agreement of counsel in the case, a dispute over the custody of a three-year-old child was settled today at a hearing before Judge William A. Huster in circuit court.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus had been filed by Mrs. Margaret Lloyd and Mrs. Helen Smith against Charles Smith and Mrs. Myrtle Smith, to obtain the custody of the boy son of Charles and Helen Smith.

Two other children are living with Mrs. Lloyd, the grandmother, and Mrs. Helen Smith, the mother, who live on Clement street. The son was living with the father and his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Smith, on Braddock road.

Paul M. Fletcher, attorney for the defendants, suggested that the mother keep all three children one week and that they live the following week with the father, pending a decision in the custody case of the parents. Board of Ryan, counsel for the plaintiffs, agreed to the proposal and withdrew the petition for a writ.

Two Men Are Burned In Fire at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory

Two men were burned, one seriously, in a fire at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, Pinto, last evening. They were:

Leroy Miller, 26, of Pinto, who suffered second degree burns of the entire body. Attaches of Allegany hospital last evening described his condition as "fair" and said that he was "resting comfortably."

H. D. Walker, 47, of Cumberland, who suffered burns on both hands in the fire, was able to leave Allegany hospital after dispensary treatment, attaches said.

Mrs. Dolly May Conn, 44, of Vin-dex, was treated in Memorial hospital last evening at 6 o'clock for a possible fracture of the right arm. She told attaches she was walking in the yard at her home and stumbled and fell against a rock.

Minke Solves Bird Mystery

White Egret Meets Death after Flying Against Creek Wall or Wire

The mystery surrounding the appearance of a strange bird in Cumberland this week was finally solved yesterday by Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

After the bird met its death by flying against a wire or the Will's creek concrete wall, two boys residing in the 700 block on North Meigs street called Minke to review the remains.

Joe took one look and told the boys that the bird was a snowy white egret, formerly abundant in the Gulf states, and frequently seen in the late summer or early fall on lakes Koon and Gordon. This migratory bird usually inhabits lakes and feeds on small fish but Minke was puzzled as to why it came to a polluted stream like Will's creek where fish are just a memory.

The attractive bird with snowy white body, long black legs and long yellow bill, resembling a crane or heron but not as large, had a wing spread of forty inches.

Found lying along the creek bed, the white egret died after suffering a broken leg and wing.
